

On Monday, March 8, 2010 the Northern Arizona Chapter of the American Meteorological Society held it's fourth meeting at the National Weather Service office in Bellemont, Arizona.

The meeting started off with a barbeque cooked by Vice President Nick Petro. The start of the meeting included a nomination for new member Chris Outler to be our new Treasurer. This motion was open for all attending members to second. Chris Outler is now the Treasurer of our local chapter. The meeting was then turned over to President Andrew Latto who gave a presentation that discussed the processes involved in operational forecasting. Andrew focused on demonstrating the various models, their differences and how they are resolved. He ended his presentation by answering questions about storm spotting and misc., and helping people find various forecasting resources at www.weather.gov.

Nick Petro then ended the meeting by taking those in attendance on a tour of the NWS office.
