

Earth Interactions Institutional Licensing Agreement

This Agreement, dated _____, and as amended from time to time in accordance with the terms stated here, is agreed to by and among the American Meteorological Society, the American Geophysical Union, and the Association of American Geographers "the Publishers"), and "Subscriber" or "you").

1. Grant and Scope of License

(a) The Publishers hereby grant to the Subscriber and its Authorized Users, on the terms and subject to the conditions of this Agreement, the nonexclusive, revocable, nontransferable rights:

i. to access and use the electronic, online journal Earth Interactions "EI" or the "Journal") and any of its supplementary formats which the Publishers may make available and

ii. to use, subject to the terms and conditions of any third party licensor, any software and related documentation provided by the Publishers to access the Journal or as part of the content or interactive features of the Journal (such software and documentation individually and collectively is referred to as the "Access Software").

(b) The foregoing license may be exercised only through the Subscriber's addresses specified in Attachment 1 to this Agreement (the "Designated Addresses"); this attachment may be amended from time to time by the parties.

(c) In their sole discretion the Publishers may modify, add to, or discontinue any aspect of the delivery format of the Journal and support services. The Publishers reserve the right to modify, supplement, and discontinue access to data and services not specifically a part of the original research articles of the Journal (referred to as "Ancillary Material"). All rights not specifically granted in this Agreement are retained by the Publishers or their licensors.

2. Authorized Users

For the purposes of this Agreement, "Authorized Users" means only (a) the employees, faculty, and students officially affiliated with the Subscriber, using Designated Addresses within the range identified in Attachment 1 and (b) the occasional users of the Subscriber's library facilities who will access the Journal through stations physically located within such facilities and under the control and administration of the Subscriber. Authorized Users may be persons at remote sites and campuses that are administered from the Subscriber's site or campus, but not persons at remote sites or campuses with separate administrations.

This agreement specifically excludes sharing this subscription to the Journal within consortia or federations of institutions or organizations.

3. Subscriber Responsibilities

The Subscriber is responsible for:

(a) selecting, providing and maintaining all necessary telecommunication and computer equipment, services and background software, and resolving any equipment or software incompatibilities that may arise between its computer systems, for software that may be necessary to access the journal;

(b) controlling the security of any access to the Designated Addresses by reasonable means so that unauthorized parties are not able to access the Journal;

(c) establishing policies that create an environment in which Authorized Users make appropriate use of the journal; and

(d) notifying Publishers promptly when they become aware of any unauthorized access to or other misuse of the Journal, and/or the Designated Addresses.

4. Permitted Uses

Solely for respective private use, research, and scholarly publication Subscribers and Authorized Users are

- (a) permitted online access to, and may make searches of, the Journal;
- (b) may download results of searches consisting of no more than 15 percent of the journal to diskette or hard disk, make one hard copy of search results, and share such hard copy with third parties for criticism, comment, news reporting, teaching, scholarship, or research; and
- (c) include figures, tables, and short extracts from the Journal in scientific publications, provided that appropriate credit accompanies such reproductions.

The Publishers acknowledge and agree that portions of the Journal that are specifically designated as in the public domain or U.S. Government works may be copied without further permission from the Publishers. Except as expressly permitted herein, all other uses of the Journal or any portion thereof, including, but not limited to, altering, recompiling, republishing, resale, systematic reproduction, printing for fee-for-service purposes or storage in a searchable, machine-readable database, or timeshare of the Journal database and/or the making of electronic copies for transmission to non-subscribers or non-subscribing institutions (such as in interlibrary loan) are prohibited. Use of third party materials in the Journal is subject to the terms and conditions established by the third parties.

5. Term and Termination; Effects of Termination

- (a) This Agreement becomes effective on receipt by the Publishers of the subscription fees and of a copy of this Agreement signed by an authorized agent of the Subscriber and continues through the end of the calendar year in which the subscription first becomes effective unless sooner terminated in accordance with its terms. Thereafter, unless either party gives written notice, at least thirty (30) days before the end of the then-current subscription year of its intent not to renew, this Agreement automatically renews for successive terms of one (1) year each, so long as annual subscription fees are paid.
- (b) This Agreement shall automatically terminate thirty (30) days after Subscriber gives any Publisher notice of its disapproval of any revisions to this Agreement made by Publishers pursuant to Section 6.
- (c) If the Subscriber is in breach of this Agreement and fails to cure such breach within thirty (30) days after receipt from Publishers of written notice of such breach, or if Subscriber violates any Section of this Agreement, Publishers reserve the right to terminate this Agreement 48 hours after notifying Subscriber of the intent to terminate.
- (d) To the extent permitted by the Publishers' then-current resources and in accordance with their then-current procedures:

- i. in the event that they determine to discontinue providing the Journal, the Publishers may provide the Subscriber and Authorized Users with access to the Journal in another format selected by the Publishers at their sole option.

- ii. in the event that the Subscriber fails to renew its annual subscription, the Publishers will provide the Subscriber and Authorized Users with access, in another format selected by the Publishers at their sole option, to the material published in the Journal for those years for which the Subscriber held paid subscriptions.

Publishers have no obligations to update such formats. Under these circumstances, Subscriber will be granted the right to make a copy for preservation purposes.

Publishers presently anticipate that any such access would be limited to the text and standard graphics that would be easily transcribable to a stand-alone format but that such access would not include links to external databases or other Web sites or interactive material that may require third party licensing. In receiving any such access, Subscribers and Authorized Users would continue to be subject to terms and conditions, similar to the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

6. Modification of Agreement

Publishers reserve the right to modify the terms of this Agreement upon thirty (30) days' prior written notice which may be delivered by e-mail, fax, or other delivery mechanism.

7. Journal Copyright

Except as otherwise provided herein, the Journal, its content in all forms, and the database in which it resides, are owned by Publishers and are subject to all applicable copyright, database protection, and other rights of the Publishers as copyright owner and publisher under the laws of the United States and International treaties. Copyright notices of the Publishers may not be removed, obscured, or modified in any way. Subscriber acknowledges that it has no claim to ownership by reason of its use of or access to the Journal.

8. Software Copyright; Restrictions

All rights in the Access Software and any software provided with the Journal or Ancillary Material (collectively, the "Software") are held by the copyright owner(s) and are subject to all applicable copyright and other proprietary rights of such owner(s) under the laws of the United States and International treaties. Publishers will use commercially reasonable efforts to correct any material performance problem brought to their attention and may suspend performance pending such correction.
