

NWS/Broadcasters Forum & Roundtable

A collaborative effort to bring Wisconsin meteorologists from the broadcast community, National Weather Service, and academia together with climate scientists.

When: Sunday, November 4, 1:00 PM to 4:30 PM

Where: University of Wisconsin Campus, Weeks Hall For Geological Sciences. Room AB20. <http://map.wisc.edu/s/nn3slm9a>
Next to Atmospheric, Oceanic and Space Sciences Building. Parking on street or garage at Union South

RSVP: Tim Halbach timothy.j.halbach@noaa.gov

Agenda

1:00 PM Welcome, Introductions, and Presentation. Tim Halbach, Warning Coordinator Meteorologist, National Weather Service, Sullivan

NOAA/NWS Climate Resources

1:30 PM Dr. Ankur Desai, Atmospheric & Ocean Sciences, UW-Madison

Your Audience Cares About Climate Change and It's Local Impacts

2:00 PM Dr. Jon Martin, Atmospheric & Ocean Sciences, UW-Madison

Warming Winters Over the Last 70 Years: Canary in the Climate Coal Mine

2:30 PM Dr. Dan Vimont, Director, Nelson Institute for Climatic Research

Expected Climate Changes in the World and Wisconsin

3:00 PM Break

3:15 PM Bob Lindmeier, Chief Meteorologist, WKOW TV

Communicating Climate Science

3:45 PM Roundtable Discussion Between Speakers and Audience