FOREWORD

35th AMS CONFERENCE ON HURRICANES AND TROPICAL METEOROLOGY

09-13 May 2022

On behalf of the American Meteorological Society (AMS), the AMS Committee on Tropical Meteorology and Tropical Cyclones, and the Conference Program Committee, welcome to New Orleans and the 35th AMS Conference on Hurricanes and Tropical Meteorology.

This conference continues a period of extraordinary interest in tropical cyclones and tropical meteorology. More than 450 abstracts were submitted in response to the call for papers and over 100 of those submissions were made by the future leaders in our field: our students. We would especially like to acknowledge those students who entered into the Max Eaton Award and Outstanding Student Presentation Award competitions and wish them the best of luck. We would also like to thank the chairs of the student award selection panels, Dr. Jon Martinez and Dr. Josh Alland, and those who serve on the award selection panels.

We hope you find that the program represents a true blend of wide-ranging topics in tropical meteorology. To help balance the demand of triple talk sessions, we have dedicated the late afternoons of Monday and Wednesday to poster sessions, which should give you more time to spend with individual presenters. Virtual Posters will be held on Tuesday night.

There are several special themed sessions at the conference, including commemorative sessions for Dr. Fuqing Zhang (Tuesday morning and afternoon) and Dr. Gail Skofronick-Jackson (Wednesday afternoon) and sessions on Integration, Visualization, and Mining of Hurricane Observations (Monday afternoon), Radiative Feedback in Tropical Cyclones and Tropical Convection (Friday morning), and Turbulence-resolving Simulations of Tropical Cyclones and High-wind Boundary Layers (Wednesday afternoon), among other sessions you will find in your program. We appreciate the efforts of those who organized these sessions.

This one-week conference is the culmination of many months of work by dozens of people. We would like to extend our gratitude to Marissa Welch of the AMS Meetings Department for her unending assistance in planning and conducting this conference. Please convey your thanks to all of the AMS staff as you interact with them throughout the week. Several student volunteers are attending and will also assist with a variety of support positions. In particular, we welcome first-time student presenters and also look forward to receiving feedback on your experience at this year's conference. Please do not hesitate to contact us or any member of the committee with your suggestions.

Despite the large number of submissions to this conference, the program committee met the challenge to organize sessions that would appropriately represent all topics. This was an enormous task, but the committee worked diligently in a truly collegial manner. We hope you will seek out the committee members listed below to offer your appreciation. The program committee thanks the AMS Committee on Tropical Meteorology and Tropical Cyclones for their guidance.

Throughout the week, please take advantage of the venue and the best of New Orleans to make your stay even more memorable.
